SHAME: GOV. MIKE PENCE AND THE NEGLECT OF OUR ROADS AND BRIDGES

No matter what part of Indiana you live in, you've read a headline about a bridge collapse, driven across a cracked or crumbling road surface – or perhaps been stuck for hours in the I-65 detour that paralyzed part of the state.

Perhaps your family drives across one of Indiana's 2,000 bridges that have been judged structurally unsafe.<sup>1</sup> It's the result of years of neglect of our roads and bridges.

But Gov. Pence appears to have no shame when it comes to protecting Hoosier families and travelers. Pence is proposing a plan for investing in roads and bridges that amounts to a slap in the face to Indiana families – a small fraction of what studies reveal we really need.<sup>2</sup>
